Transforming Inmates and Prison Officers in Zimbabwe

NLBI Trainer Eric Mangisi in Zimbabwe taught a total of 247 inmates in eight prisons and enrolled 77 new students in the program, despite the cold weather.

"My visits to the prisons in June had a significant impact on the inmates. I was able to provide them with spiritual guidance, counseling, and educational materials from NLBI courses. The NLBI lessons are transforming many inmates and even officers, positively impacting the lives of many," he reported.

We are thankful to H.M. Motsinger, Ed.D., and many others who wrote these Bible-based lessons that help people put Scripture into practice.

Tribal Headman and Chief Request More NLBI Training

When NLBI Trainer Hanna Tabo trained 170 people at a conference in Namibia on June 3, 35 people were baptized and 79 people were restored in their relationship with God. A worship center and counseling center were opened at the conference location.

We celebrate what God did at the conference as well as another very important door He opened. The headman and their chief from a tribal group 25 miles from the conference location asked Hanna Tabo to provide training to help with child pregnancy intervention and substance abuse as well as moral and Biblical lessons for the children in the community.

"All of us are required to know Jesus and make Him known. The communion of and with Holy Spirit will give us strength and courage to reach out to a dying world. In that City of God, there will be no sorrow, no hunger and no death. How I long to go to that City (Revelation 21)," Hanna Tabo wrote.
