Surrendering Our Prayers and Kisses

Luke 22:39-47

Jesus walks to the Mount of Olives “as usual,” revealing that prayer, surrender, and obedience were not occasional acts, but the consistent rhythm of His life. Surrounded by His disciples – including Judas – Jesus continues to teach everyone in His community the same way of trust, humility, and prayer. He invites them to pray and then models it Himself, falling to His knees only a stone’s throw away.

Then Judas arrives, one of their own, offering a kiss – a symbol of love and affection – as the instrument of betrayal. His actions remind us that being close to Jesus is not the same as living like Jesus. Proximity to Christ without surrender taints even our best affections and can still lead to temptation.

This passage challenges us to consider what Jesus trusted, how He obeyed even when the path was painful, and what His surrender reveals about His relationship with the Father. Though He had power over all creation, Jesus did not cling to control. Instead, He entrusted Himself fully to God. True freedom is not found merely in being near Christ, but in doing what Christ did – surrendering fully in prayer, obedience, and trust.
