The Goodness of God: Show Me Who You Are

Exodus 33:18–23; 34:5–9

Moses asks to see God's glory, but God responds by revealing his goodness. God proclaims himself compassionate and gracious, slow to anger, abounding in steadfast love and faithfulness, forgiving sin while still taking evil seriously. The sermon emphasizes that God's goodness begins in his character, not in our performance or expectations. Israel had failed badly, yet God's mercy remained rooted in who God is. We do not worship, serve, or obey to earn his acceptance. We respond because his goodness has already reached us! That same goodness calls us into the difficult work of forgiveness, Godly justice, reconciliation, and healing.
